Observations

By Bob Walsh

Why No Dam

There is much wailing and gnashing being done by many who have suffered the ravages of water and ice in recent weeks. Bitter words have been said, with local officials often serving as the target of strong accusations. Some of this attack is justified, but the blame is much broader than the backs of a few officials. In fact the accusers are equally to blame.

There is no dam up river from Warren because Warren did not want it. And this applies to a vast majority of our population including many who today are screaming vituperatively at elected leaders . . . and some who were not elected.

We could have had the dam before the war, and certainly it could have been built immediately after the shooting was finished if we had worked for its construction instead of against it. The dam has been strongly opposed by Warren from the very start, and there are many influential people who even today constantly hope that the repetitious series of surveys and studies will come up with another answer.

A Common Emotion Used

Much of the publicly expressed favor of the dam is little more than an assuaging front, or a reluctant retreat. It is not an enthusiastic effort to have such protection provided as soon as possible.

The same emotion which has confused the Warren public and now blocks the fluoridation of the water system was used to stop the dam. We are referring to fear. Though many other reasons have been given, and have been mouthed through the years until they have become cliches, the backbone of the opposition is fear.

Few of us like to admit we are afraid and we will grasp at other excuses to express our opposition to that which shapes up in our minds as a threat to our safety or to our comfort, pleasure, or profit. We are ashamed of our fear and we recognize the weakness of our vanity. The truth is little mentioned.

The seed of fear of course was planted by those who control public opinion through their position in the community. They used river transportation as a front and led people to believe that such transportation was tomorrow instead of yesterday, and that the prosperity which it would bring to our area would be forever blocked if a dam were built. (Easily proved untrue by engineers who certainly can take barges over a dam if they can take them over the high plateau between here and the New York state canal system. And the resulting consistent supply of water certainly would be an assist to transportation.)

There was talk of riff-raff which would come to Warren if a dam were built. But no talk of a permanent and constant invasion of our banks by undesirables if river transportation were established.

There was talk of mud-soaked banks along the resulting lake. This has been disproved by visits to similar dams and by movies which have been brought back as proof of what can be done in the way of multiple use of dams.

And You, Too

There is no need to repeat here what has been written by this editor in over a hundred editorials during the past eleven years, plus some that were written when the dam first was proposed. We suggest enough of the now well-known facts to remind you of why you may have thought as you did before your cellar became so wet on at least four occasions in recent years.

Projects such as this dam are a part of a nation-wide plan to control and preserve our gradually lessening supply of water. Many in the Ohio river system already have been built, and the Allegheny river dam is one of a very few left undone.

The army engineers are poor publicists. They are asked to make studies and to present proposals. Then they await orders and money. They do not engage in propaganda campaigns to sell their ideas. In fact, they do so poor a job of informing the public that we have found it difficult to obtain facts and figures with which to unveil the arguments used against the dam, and it has not been until very recent years when major flood damages have caused the public to demand action that the engineers have responded with the information needed.

Public apathy kept the dam project smothered nearly two decades. Warren leadership was opposed to the dam, many times very openly. The public swallowed the tripe. No one investigated the facts.

When this editor first started asking questions and writing editorials and columns which did little more than discuss the subject generally he experienced some very strong action. A powerful citizen of Warren told him that the weekly he was publishing at that time would receive no more page ads from that citizen's business if any more Kinzua dam editorials were published.

He was dined by a representative of those working for transportation and against the dam in an effort to "straighten out his thinking".

A major paper refused to publish one of his columns which asked if the dam and power could be combined, and in fact was asked to write no more commentator columns.

The Warren council went on record in favor of river transportation, and later several of its members revealed that they were well aware of the real purpose of the action when they fuzzily refused to act on a resolution favoring the dam because they said they already were on record as opposing it.

The Chamber of Commerce made no official study of the problem and not until last week did its board finally resolve that every effort should be made to influence Washington officials to work for the dam.

The so-called Clean Streams group constantly takes official stands against the dam, despite its inestimable value in accomplishing exactly what that group allegedly is seeking . . . clean, useful water.

Labor has done nothing to arouse its thousands of members to demand action on the project, despite the obvious value in the way of jobs and recreation.

The people have become excited at times, have attended an occasional meeting while their cellars still were wet, and have signed some petitions. But there has been no concerted effort to get anything done.

So, No Dam

Such projects as this require appropriations and congress is not apt to act on them if there is no effort on the part of the people affected to get the job done. This is especially true if there is local opposition. Too many others are asking for money to expect it to be spent where the residents don't want it.

We have not hesitated to reveal that Congressman Leon H. Gavin has done nothing to hurry this dam. In fact for years he worked against it.

We abhor that kind of leadership and do not excuse Gavin for his failure to act in the best interests of his people, but let us not forget that he was reacting to the demands of his electorate. Those with influence who control our politics probably were telling him to oppose it. At least they were not telling him to fight for it.

And the people spent years with water threatening their homes and lives while they voted for the man who did nothing to relieve them. But they were not asking him for help. Even if their plight should have been obvious to him, and he should have acted, they were equally to blame for not urging him to truly represent them or get out.

All that most congressmen know about the proposed dam is that it is a project in Northwestern Pennsylvania not wanted by the Indians. They could be excused for believing that the rest of us sympathize with the legal efforts to repeal the law which makes it a part of our water control program.

We have failed to send delegations to Washington for the many hearings that have been held during the years since the dam was added to our control system. We have failed to approach the Indians in an effort to show them how much it is needed and to assure them that we will do everything possible to see that they are fully compensated.

Warren has not asked for the dam. We have offered no voice in its favor and have been rewarded with what we have asked . . . nothing!

And Opposition?

Is there opposition to the dam in Washington other than the Indians? Has anyone bothered to have a close look?

Remembering the powerful forces which did so much to poison the minds of area people, why would it not be smart for this same opposition to move to Washington? If we were opposing the dam we would think it might be worth as much as $10,000 a year to station a lobbyist in the capitol city for the purpose of tugging at the right lapels, dining the right people, and whispering in the right ears.

APPOINTMENT. Raymond R. Chapman has been appointed plant manager of Sylvania's Plastics Plant in Warren effective March 1.

There is more to putting across a $100 million project than placing your remarks in the Congressional Record. Such expenditures are settled in the cloak rooms where "you vote for mine and I'll vote for yours" is the confirming phrase.

It Adds Up To

The trouble is quite simply put. Too few of us have asked for the dam. And too many have opposed it. And we suspect they still are, and on all fronts . . . including Washington, D. C.

Why don't all the resolving groups team up to investigate that slant, also? It might remove a major blockade.

THE GROWING HORROR

"The Growing Horror of Lung Cancer", written by J. D. Ratcliff, a prominent science writer, will be seen in the March issue of The Readers Digest, which comes out today. It claims a direct link between cigarettes and cancer, and stresses the rapid rise of lung cancer and the smoking of cigarettes in the past thirty years.

It also describes in detail the operation on one patient who was a heavy smoker, and who now must wait five years to learn if the operation was a success. The article reveals that lung operations now are successful only about five per cent of the time. But if smokers would be examined every three months this could be increased to fifty per cent.

CONFUSING

One of the problems we have been facing in our business for several years is the constant failure of suppliers to fill orders. Why is it they fail to have standard products available to fill continual orders? And why lay off men if supplies that are commonly ordered are not adequately produced?

PRICES UP

You will see more increases in the cost of your papers, magazines, advertising, and printing generally. Most of those in the industry have been soaking up the increases over the past two years, but now more fattening of the monthly statements from suppliers are in the making.

Increases ranging from ten to twenty-five per cent in various categories are being announced. And you know who must pay if the publisher or printer is to meet his expenses. And all this during recession times when demand is supposed to be small and prices should go down, if our system really works.

FRAUD CASES

The Post Office Department has released a list of fraud orders issued against various defendants as the result of decisions rendered by its judicial officer. They include:

Lady Ample, Inc. claimed "The Lady Ample" was a device which would give you a natural bust line for $4.50.

"Torexin" was advertised as a pimple, wrinkle, and blemish remover.

"Pengan" was sold through the mail as a weight gainer.

"Deram" was pushed as a preparation for permanently removing hair.

The Helping Chapel of the Master and Sister Beatrice Candle Shop sold articles to bring good luck or ward off evils. They were mailed in success packs for $2.50. Special "summer and winter success" packs were sold for $25, $5 down and the rest in easy installments. Perfumes in the form of colored water and other charms were sold to be carried in a purse to assure a safe and successful life.

You laugh? But people buy them! Shall we go on?

There was "Immun Capsules" sold as preventatives by the Nu-Health Laboratories and Dr. Girard W. Campbell, of Lynbrook, N.Y. Heart disease was what they were supposed to prevent.

Modern Aids, Inc., sold "Gelatin-Slim" to reduce weight.

Vita King Corporation mailed "Super Enerjol" to improve your health and vitality.

The 100 Doll Company offered "real" dolls and "dancing" dolls for $1 a hundred, and implied the dolls' costumes could be changed.

The packages actually contained 98 small plastic figures painted pink and two small plastic Santa Claus sleds with reindeers.

And there are many more, but this should serve once more to give you an idea of the frauds which are attempted, often with success, in the daily mail. The post office watch dogs can't catch all of them, and before they do your money often can be gone.

On the list thirty-three defendants were mentioned, most of whom probably never got into Warren with the appeals for your funds.

If your lawn isn't a rich green in a little over a month, with promise of filling in as a solid turf before summer, you need help. And it is forthcoming for $2.50 if you wish to take a correspondence course from Pennsylvania State University, 202 Agriculture Education Building, University Park, Pa.

At no cost you also can obtain a catalog listing other agricultural and home economic courses that soon will be appropriate. In fact, now is the time, so that you will be "educated" when the sun and mild spring breezes pronounce that the time is right.

DEVELOPMENT DEADLINE

All communities wishing to compete in the fifth annual Pennsylvania community development contest have until March 16 for filing entries. There are five categories divided as to sizes, with the same cash prizes in each one. These prizes range from $1,500 for the winner to $100 for seventh place. In between prizes run $1,000, $500, $400, $300, and $200.

Entry blanks and contest rules may be obtained from the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, Harrisburg. Local Chambers also should have copies. Eleven corporations and associations are the sponsors.

Help your community with a project and perhaps get some of it back with a cash award. You can't lose, ***

BUSINESS WAS GOOD

Whatever your books may show, business in 1958 wasn't so bad in Warren county. The sales of cars in November were higher than in October by ten, and in the last two months of the year power sales were the third highest on record for that period. Postal receipts and telephones were at record highs for both months.

Building operations were at the second highest point for December since 1952, and the highest since 1953.

So sayest the Pennsylvania State University bulletin's business survey.

In Brief

POLITICS START officially next Tuesday when the filing of petitions becomes legal. From then until March 16 the candidates must let the public know they want to be on the ballot and must meet the requirements.

As for the voters, their last day to register so that they will be eligible to make their choice is March 30. The primary date is May 19.

Already announced are the candidacies of L. L. Johnson and Blain Mead for county commissioner, William E. Rice for county treasurer, Gurney Ball for register and recorder, Ralph Sires for prothonotary, Don Allen and Clayton Rhoades for sheriff. All of these are Republicans. The Democrats have been silent and probably will say nothing until a slate is chosen.

The Republicans also may come up with more news next week after they meet to discuss the campaign. We expect to see competition in Republican circles for the prothonotary job, and it will not be surprising if more candidates are heard from concerning the commissioner and sheriff offices. However, there are signs of a quieter tone on the part of the GOP concerning Commissioner Mead which might suggest they will make no concerted effort to defeat him. Or perhaps some are playing both ends.

NEED CONTROL. The Warren County Planning Commission, headed by James Kannen, has stated that unless countywide planning is started at once Warren County faces dangers in uncontrolled development in the near future. It is the opinion of the group that changes taking place in the county can be detrimental to property values and may retard the possibility of attracting new business interest if an orderly plan for the growth of the county is not developed.

Items listed that will bring major changes to the area are the proposed Kinzua Dam, relocation of Route 62 north of Warren, possible relocation of Route 6 between Starbrick and Youngsville.

The commission is not opposed to these projects but feels, after their studies and consultations with experts in the planning field, the county commissioners should provide a professional staff to develop comprehensive plans for the county.

TIMBER SALES from state forests produced $400,000 last year, though the board feet of saw timber dropped 5,500 feet to 20,925. Cordwood sale for pulp increased over 6,000, from 17,133 cords to 23,592. The money goes into the general fund, and the sales are by contract to the highest bidder. Only enough is cut each year to improve the timber stand.

WANTS EARLY CONSTRUCTION. The Warren County Development Association directors have gone on record favoring early construction of the Kinzua Dam and in a formal resolution have urged Congressional approval of funds to enable the Army Engineers to proceed as quickly as possible with planning and construction of same. The association directed its resolution to the Appropriations Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives and will send a representative to appear before the committee when the Army Engineer's budget comes up for hearing soon.

In its resolution the association stated it believes that early construction of the Kinzua Dam will promote the economic growth of Warren County by: 1. Preventing recurrent flood damage and loss to existing industry; and 2. Making available to new industry valuable plant sites now unusable because of recurrent flooding.

Also that the dam will stimulate the development of the county's recreational resources by: 1. The elimination of repeated flooding of lands bordering the river, and by provision of a more constant summer stream flow for sports and recreation on the Allegheny River. 2. Creating an important new recreational resource through construction of a reservoir and attendant improvements.

Robert O. Wilder is chairman of the WCDA board.

HE'S HERE AGAIN. Yes, Old Man Winter made an obvious return to us Wednesday and brought with him a nice white blanket of snow. Early hours this morning also saw temperatures in the area dip to zero and below.

The Allegheny River has been behaving. Sunday it climbed to around nine feet with some ice cakes. It started dropping that night.

A TRIO OF TEENAGERS nabbed by police while going through unlocked cars in a downtown parking lot Tuesday evening may shed some light on the series of burglaries that have been hitting the area.

The three have admitted to rifling other cars in past weeks and the younger, a 15-year-old, admitted to breaking into the Warren Dry Cleaning firm earlier this month but was frightened away. He, along with the pair of 17-year-olds caught, also admitted to plans of gaining entry to Kay-Miller store on the East Side. Other burglaries may also be linked to the young men.

A SETTLEMENT in the case of Allen Lowe and parents and Edward Vaughn and parents against the Jr. Chamber of Commerce and Atlantic Fireworks Corp. is expected. Both boys were injured by an explosion caused from fireworks left at Beaty field following a JC Fourth of July celebration. The Lowe boy lost a hand in the mishap.

The case was scheduled for Civil Court Monday. Attorneys for the plaintiffs reported after a conference with defense attorneys and the insurance adjuster, that a settlement had been reached except for one small point. No amount will be disclosed until court approval is given.

SCHEDULED for questioning by police at the State Police barracks in Warren this morning was Robert Brightman, age 17. He was picked up by Corry authorities in a barn at the James Parker place near Bear Lake Tuesday afternoon and will be questioned further today about two robberies committed earlier this week in nearby New York State.

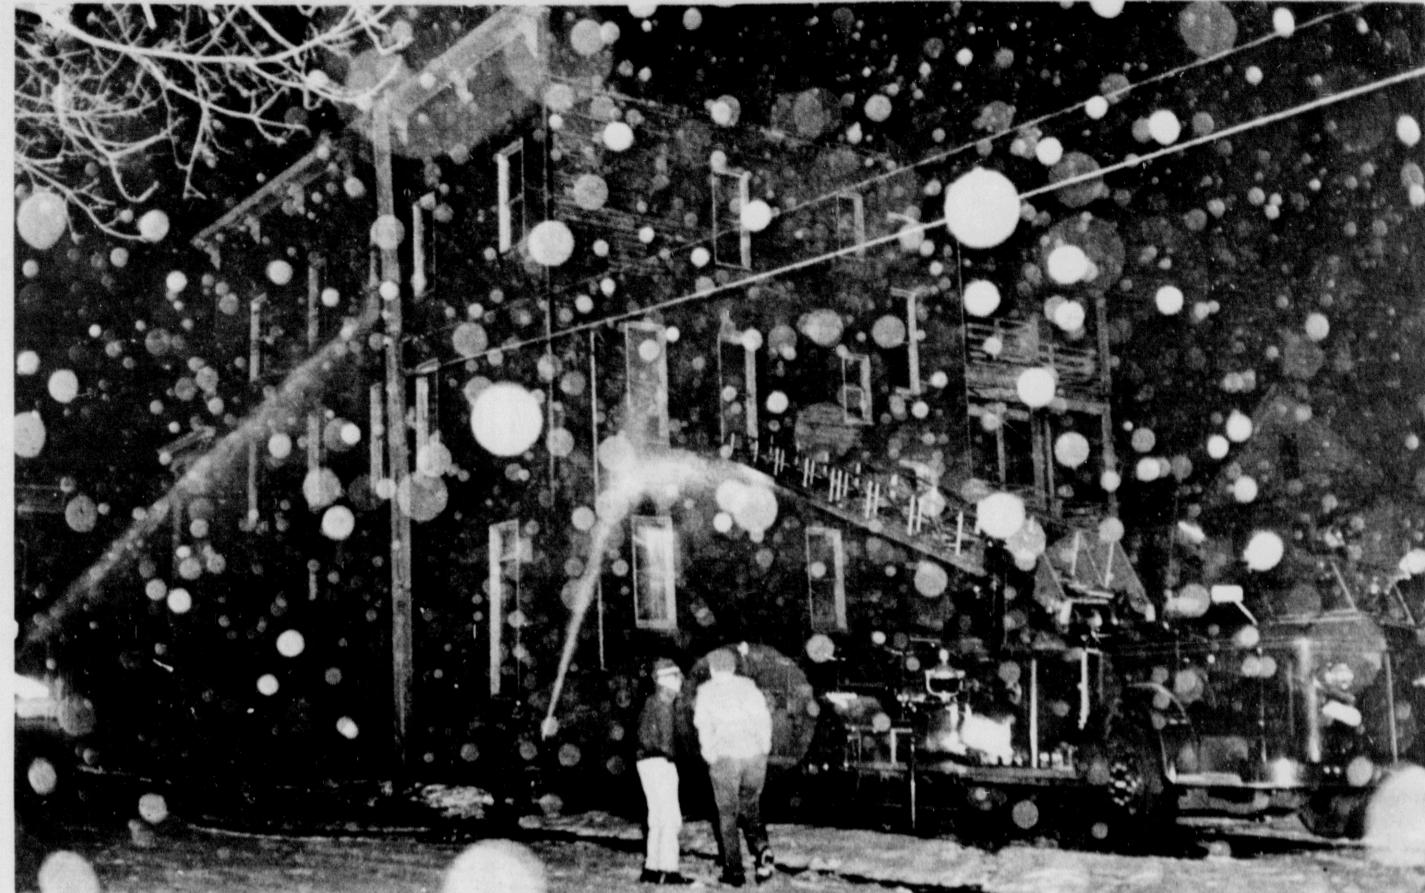

Brightman, who was released from a mental institution just a few months ago, told police he was waiting for young Roy Parker to return home. He planned to kill the young man for fear he knew of his crimes. He had been using the Parker auto on occasions.

ROUTE SIX just east of Warren was the scene of a one-car crash early Saturday afternoon when C. D. Scalise, 16 Eddy st., went off the road and struck a bridge. He told authorities he lost control of the vehicle when his car wheels locked. A passenger, Mrs. Jennie Scalise, sustained a fractured leg. There was $500 damage.

HITS BRIDGE. James Donovan, R. D. 1, Titusville, escaped serious injuries about 3:30 Saturday morning when his gasoline tanker crossed over on Route 27 at Pittsfield and climbed the bridge abutment. It is believed the operator fell asleep.

The accident tied traffic up for several hours. Damage to the truck was estimated at over $10,000.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT. John F. Pierson, age 54, of 18 St. Clair st., was rushed to Warren General Hosp. in a serious condition Tuesday evening after slashing his throat with a razor blade. Police called to the scene found Pierson in the bathroom, where he had also left a note.

TOO SLIPPERY. Joseph Pasquino, 22 Conewango ave., Warren, was unable to stop his panel truck and struck a machine driven by R. C. Mumford, 10 Conewango pl., Warren, when the latter pulled out of a Clark st. drive in front of him shortly after noon Wednesday. The Mumford auto was then pushed into a parked car owned by A. L. Anderson, Erie. The two cars sustained the majority of the $260 damage caused.

VEERING to miss an approaching car which had swung into the wrong lane, Virginia B. Morley, Sheffield, plowed into a parked car driven by Charles L. Larsen, 200 Madison ave., Warren. This incident happened at 11 a.m. Wednesday near Guiffre's store on Pennsylvania ave., E. Damage caused, $350.

DOOR SWINGS OUT. A door on a parked tractor-trailer operated by Floyd P. Gates, Jr., Celeron, N.Y., swung open as Edward Bielawski, 105 Connecticut ave., Warren, was pulling around with his own truck on Liberty st. last Thursday afternoon. The Warren man's vehicle couldn't avoid hitting the swinging object and was damaged to the tune of $175.

MORE DAM approbation was found in Tidioute Tuesday evening. The Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce added its voice to the many in the area who are demanding protection for those in the lowlands by passing a resolution in support of the Allegheny river dam.

HAT IN RING. Clayton Rhoades, Conewango twp. police officer since 1955 and former Warren Borough policeman, will seek the Republican nomination for sheriff in the May 19 Primary election. He is opposing Don Allen, Jr., now deputy sheriff, who previously announced his bid.

AMONG those in attendance at the 91st annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City are John Mallory, Jr., Warren County superintendent, and Everett A. Landin, supervising principal at North Penn Area Joint high school.

CREDIT UNION FORMED. General Teamsters union members have organized a General Teamsters Local 963 Federal Credit Union with the following to serve as officers and board members: Henry M. Newton, president; Kaye Brindley, vice president; Charles J. Zenner, treasurer; Lucille Shrewsbury, clerk; and Robert A. Ploetz, publicity chairman.

JET PROGRAM. Warren Jaycees have announced they will serve as a sponsor for a Junior Executive Training Program for the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vermont.

The local group will undertake to provide homes for three weeks, commencing March 22, for the junior executives from various foreign countries. The visitors will learn the American homelife and ways of doing business before going on to their formal studies at Syracuse University.

Persons interested in having these people as their guests should contact David Swanson during the day at Warren 348, or William Hill during the evening at Warren 4199.

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Warren Board of Health Friday, C. C. Winans was elected president, J. Russell Hanson, vice president, and Dr. William S. Walters, secretary. Other board members are Howard Lauffenburger and Andrew Yurick.

Its report revealed that during 1958 Measles, German Measles and Chicken Pox were by far the most common diseases with 415, 244 and 179 reported quarantined respectively. There was only one case of Poliomyelitis, and that a non-resident.

AWARDS for being the "Good Citizen of Her School" have been presented by the Gen. Joseph Warren Chapter, DAR, to four county seniors: Linda Whitehill, Warren

SECOND FLOOR GUTTED. Fire, believed to have started from an overheated chimney, broke out about 9 o'clock last evening in the old Punsky building at the corner of Pennsylvania ave. and Carver st. The second floor, where the fire started, was gutted.

Quick action by the Warren Fire Department doused flames shooting from the old structure, which is believed to be the first, or one of the first, hotels in Warren.

The property has been purchased by the Pennzoil Co. Charles Lyon is in the process of razing the structure. He, with his son who discovered the fire, were working in the building at the time.

ASIDES

THIS WILL SCARE THEM

If you want to really frighten some of the most active opponents of the Allegheny river dam, mention electric power. Though the plans for the dam do not include such facilities, we often have suggested that it should be constructed in such way that they could be added if at a future time they were needed.

This economical use of water and coal has never been one that has proved popular in obvious quarters. As one who has discussed it on a few occasions we can assure you that such a suggestion seldom goes unchallenged.

You often run into the school which will say, "You will need coal to make steam when the river gets low." They never remember that the water is being used to conserve coal when the river is high. If you are confused, don't feel unhappy. You are sitting in the line of fire between professionals.

Stirring up this kilowatt heat is the Pennsylvania Rural Electrification Administration. Representatives of thirteen cooperatives claim that power equipment in the dam could produce 40,000 kilowatts. (With water doing the job most of the months, remember.)

When federal officials and others meet in Washington on February 26 to see what can be done about hurrying up action on Pennsylvania flood protection, the Coops intend to be there, and they will ask that the dam be adapted to power.

The volts are hopping.

NATURALLY

And there are some people with electrical connections who show a keen interest in the value of dikes . . . or even dykes.

SPRINGBOARD

The flood protection studies made in 1948 and 1949 for Warren should not be ignored in the current effort to find a solution. They should serve as a base from which to work.

Obviously we cannot afford a major diking project which will cost $3 million or more. But we might manage some bulldozing in key places that would protect homes and buildings from the direct flow of ice and water. We also might raise present dikes a couple feet to assure protection in future emergencies.

We do not see how anyone can object to a protective dike around the hospital. Its cost would not be excessive, the resulting bank could be seeded and would blend in with the background, and all of us would be assured of hospital service in the midst of major emergencies. Left in the stream, the water backing into the hospital area would not raise the level in any other section an inch.

We must have a hospital available at all times.

WASTED PARKING SPACE

Most streets in Warren offer an easy solution to the all-night parking problem. Most homes have enough lot around them to handle several cars, and that is where they belong . . . off the street. In most cases where the lot is not sufficiently large to accommodate cars, there is space between the curb and the walk in which cars could be parked, but the borough outlaws it.

Why? If a parked car offers no danger when parked on the street, why should it be a problem when parked off the thoroughfare? A bit of gravel, or hard-top, and many hundreds of parking spots would be added to the community's supply.

LET'S HAVE BOOKS

Discussions between the Warren library and county officials continue as they attempt to arrive at a mutually satisfactory arrangement for providing a county library service. We hope those involved will not be so ungenerous in their approach that the county loses this opportunity to use state and federal funds.

We must keep in mind that this is a demonstration; not a permanent agreement. The objective is to make thousands of books available to county residents in a way that never before has been possible.

UP FOR REELECTION. Blain M. Mead, Republican chairman of the Warren County Commissioners, announces he will be a candidate for reelection in the May 19 Primaries.

The basic requirements to make this possible do not involve long range administration differences. Those can be worked out if the service proves to be a success.

We must have many books, a medium for getting them to the readers, and a professional librarian who has had experience with bookmobile service. We can not waste our demonstration period and money teaching a librarian to do the job. The librarian should be so familiar with her work that she will be able to give us as well as the state a demonstration of what can be done.

There of course must be a working contract between the county and the Warren library. There is a minimum of service that should be named and expected for county residents, and it should be spelled out.

Certainly, we can agree on this minimum and the people can be provided with a service so vital to our times and our future.

Television and Radio

LIGHT IN DARK CORNERS

One area that our journalists cover hardly at all is journalism itself and I'm happy to report that some of journalism's dark corners are now being explored on a program called "The Press and the People." "The Press and the People" is produced by WGBH in Boston, Mass. by means of a grant from the Fund from the Republic and is now carried on some forty other stations around the nation (in New York, it's on WPIX at noon on Fridays).

Journalism has its share--and maybe more than its share--of attractive personalities and it also, God knows, has more than its share of problems in this complex age and this program is designed to shed a little light on those. One of the guests on this program one day was Edwin Lahey, a dry, earthy, knowledgeable character I could see much more of on television. Lahey, who is chief of the Washington Bureau of the Knight newspapers including "The Detroit Free Press," "The Miami Herald," "The Charlotte Observer" and "The Akron Beacon Journal," was uttering a few homely truths on the almost insurmountable task of getting the facts on our foreign military assistance.

"This will go on forever," said Lahey. "The Defense Department says that it doesn't object to a country-by-country breakdown of foreign military assistance. So you call the State Department. They say they cannot give a country-by-country figure for military assistance. So you say: 'Well, who said you can't?' Then you go from one pay-roller to another to find out who made the administrative determination that this would not be revealed to the public. And I defy anyone to put somebody in a corner who will say: 'I made that determination.' You just cannot find it. There are 10,000 people you have to talk to and you get worn down." And Lahey wrapped it all up in one salty phrase: "It's like getting bitten to death by a duck, to find out a thing like that."

Here Lahey has put his finger on one of the most agonizing frustrations newsmen experience--the sheer size of the task of covering it. At another point, the moderator of the discussion, Louis Lyons, declared that the reporter's job, the newspaper's job is becoming "an impossible job with all the complexities, let alone secrecy and censorship."

"That is right," said Lahey. "At any given moment in a local room, a state capital bureau, a Washington Bureau, or a foreign bureau, there is more to do than is humanly possible to do. I have never had a day in Washington when that was not true."

Size, in short, is an enormous and increasing problem of its own and some of the other newsmen on this show have complained about it. Sheer immensity is a new kind of stumbling block to the reporter because it's quite possible for a story to get so big it gets ignored altogether--which is a new kind of censorship.

A different aspect of this problem of size was brought out by Eric Sevareid and Martin Agronsky, who represented television's news commentators, the equivalent of a newspaper's columnists. Agronsky pointed out that TV costs are so high that "only the greatest corporations can afford it." The greatest corporations, faced with that kind of cost are inclined, he said, to put the money in a shoot-em-up Western which would have a bigger audience.

Sevareid put the problem in more trenchant terms, which deserve scrutiny. "I think," he said, "that courage of controversy, courage of innovation in the realm of ideas goes in inverse ratio to size of the establishment. And that's very simple. I think it is because, first, that the investment in any given item that is produced, whether it is a TV program or a Hollywood movie, or the big mass magazines, is such an enormous investment that they must find a great denominator in terms of audience, whether it is the lowest common denominator or not."

In other words, size tends to drive us toward the trivial--or towards ignoring the news altogether. Lahey pointed out, for example, that the hardest story to write and the worst-covered story of our time is inflation, which must surely be one of the most important stories of our day. It's a little frightening, the thought that as the stories get gigantic the headlines dwindle and finally vanish altogether.

DON'T TRY IT IN PENNSYLVANIA

Last week we wrote that the people's right to know could be denied if papers were protected by law from revealing the source of their news. The leading example, of course, was Marie Torre who served some time in New York when she failed to tell a court who told her a leading actress was having tonnage trouble.

Immediately there was a cry by the press for legal protection, and a split resulted. Some of us do not approve of such protection and believe the public has a right to know who says what about whom. Otherwise we can have legalized persecution.

You can argue the point well into the gloaming, but there is little need to debate it in Pennsylvania. We already have such a law. It was passed in 1937 and is called the "Shield Act". It reads in part:

No person "employed by a newspaper of general circulation or press association for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing, or publishing news shall be required to disclose the source of any information . . . in any legal proceeding, trial or investigation before any court, grand jury, traverse jury, or any officer thereof, before the General Assembly or any committee thereof, before any commission, department, or bureau of this Commonwealth, or before any county or municipal body, officer or committee thereof."

So make no effort to bully us. We are "shielded."

But you can put the radio and television boys on the spot. If you really want to know where they got their information take them into court. They have to tell you or do a Torre.

You must act fast because an effort is being made to provide them with similar protection. An amendment was dropped in the state hopper about two weeks ago for the purpose of including persons connected with radio and television under the umbrella that harbors us otherwise defenseless newsmen.

If you don't like the idea, Polaski, of Erie county, is one of the assemblymen proposing the amendment. He's a Democrat, but he had Republican company among the sponsors.

HIDEAWAY IS POPULAR GAME
Efforts to keep facts as quiet as possible are currently popular in Harrisburg. Public notices, or a portion of them, would not have to be published if one law is approved. It is temporarily stymied by a powerful press lobby.

Another proposal, originating in the Senate, would amend the county code so that commissioners could spend up to a $1,000 without public advertising. Today the limit is $750.

FROM PATHETIC TO ESTHETIC
Getting away from your reading habits and the problems they can present to those who worry about the true definition of freedom, let's go to Pittsburgh. We don't know how many of you are attending the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra con-

MISS SUSAN VAN VOLKINBURG

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Susan Van Volkinburg, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Paul, to William Boylan, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Boylan, all of Warren.

Miss Van Volkinburg, a graduate of Warren high school, is presently employed by the Warren National Bank. Her fiance also graduated from Warren high and is presently stationed at Good Fellow Air Base in San Angelo, Texas.

No plans have been made for the wedding.

certs this season, but perhaps there are some who enjoy the highlights which we occasionally mention as bait to your better instincts.

This Friday evening and next Sunday evening the second of five Beethoven Cycle concerts will be played in Syria Mosque. William Steinberg will be back from London to conduct and Zino Francescatti will be the famed soloist with his violin.

Included in the program is the most popular of Beethoven's works, the Fifth Symphony. The opening bars of this exciting piece was the rallying call to battle for the free world. And so we get back to freedom.

THEN THERE'S SHAKESPEARE

Plans already are well in the making for the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in Stratford, Ontario, to which a few of the Bard's faithful trek each summer for a few days of pleasure. "Othello" and "As You Like It" will be the plays done.

William Hutt, with the Festival since it started, will play Jacques. He now is in England with a Tyrone Guthrie scholarship. William Needles will return to Stratford after two years away.

A new revue also will be seen in the Avon Theatre during the Festival. It is "Off Limits", a new show written by a half dozen Canadian comedy penmen. "The Heart of Highland", a Scottish work, starring Lennox Milne, also will be done.

There also will be a two-week International Film Festival, August 24 to September 5, as a part of which several films will be premiered. The Stratford season, Shakespeare, revues, films, and music, will run from June 29 to September 19.

The future of Warren County, and of every other county throughout the nation, will be in the hands of the boys and girls who are now in school. World changes come about so rapidly, that our young people must learn more than their parents did. We urge students of the area to remain in school, and learn all they can. We urge adults to assume their obligation. Why not build for a "college fund" for your son or daughter at the WARREN BANK AND TRUST COMPANY?

DAILY ORDERS are presented to the Auxiliary Police at the beginning of the morning shift. In this instance, the orders are being read by James Tridico to (l. to r.) Morrison, Raleigh, and Chiodo. The Auxiliary Police must pass a course of 24

A TRAFFIC VIOLATOR receives attention from Chiodo as James Tridico checks the procedure. The entire experience will become part of the daily report. Later a discussion with Chief Evan will help the new man to determine if his attitude was the very best for building the reputation of the Department with the citizens of Warren. Already the Auxiliary Police have indicated "great values" when the regular force is overburdened such as controlling crowds at fires and parades, controlling traffic and deterring looting, and handling crowds at sporting events, celebrations, and other planned community functions.

AFTER 50 HOURS OF TRAINING under the direction of Chief Mike Evan and Sergeant Hewitt, another qualifying requirement, the men will be sworn in by Burgess Rice and presented these certificates. The Warren Police Department is composed of Chief Mike Evan, 2nd Lt. Bean, Sgt. Hewitt, Sgt. Ristau and 14 patrolmen.

UNIFORMS WERE PURCHASED by Warren borough with matching funds provided by the Pennsylvania Civil Defense. Each auxiliary policeman has a blue car coat, fur trooper hat and extra white coveralls at a direct cost to the citizens of Warren of less than $15. Standing in front of this first class are (l. to r.) George Geracimos, borough manager; Burgess William E. Rice; W. C. Fuellhart, Warren County Civil Defense Director; and Police Chief Mike Evan.

TRAINED CIVILIANS ADD STRENGTH TO WARREN BORO'S POLICE FORCE

By Lewis Crippen

Twenty-four graduates of a Civil Defense training course in "Basic Police Procedure" are being integrated into the Warren Police Department through a cooperative effort of Chief Mike Evan and Civil Defense Director William Fuellhart. Before being issued certificates indicating confirmation as Warren Borough Auxiliary Police and being sworn in by Burgess William E. Rice, the carefully screened applicants must complete fifty hours of in-service training under the direction of regular officers of the Department.

The original C. D. course in basic procedures gave the members classroom instructions in these categories: (1) Division of Government & Constitutional Rights. (2) Definition of Crimes. (3) Criminal Procedure. (4) Observation & Patrol. (5) Traffic Laws & Procedure. (6) Jiu-jitsu and Self Defense. (7) Public Relations.

W. C. Fuellhart, civil defense director, suggested that the training should not be lost through inactivity. After wrestling with the problem for sometime, Police Chief Mike Evan designed a program of in-service training through which the selected graduates could place the "book-learning" into practice by observation of officers in action and by asking questions.

Since most of the men are not engaged in regular occupational pursuits on Sundays, the first twelve men were assigned one to a shift for four shifts, 8 a. m. through midnight, with close scrutiny kept of their activities through carefully prepared reports. Once every three weeks the entire group met with Chief Evan to review experiences and to determine the best methods to meet the complex situations with favorable public relations as the ultimate goal. The trial period was most successful and the twelve were through the basic training with both the auxiliary police and the regular officers maintaining good attitudes toward the new program.

To give further training and to keep the twelve active for a longer period of time, new assignments were made to the police office. They began to answer the phone, take photos, record arrests, help with the filing, and participate in the general clerical work. In the meantime, a new class of twelve was formed and they are learning to be policemen by "pounding the beats" with the members of the departmental force.

Men of Warren County who are interested in active police work should take the civil defense course taught by Sandy Secor and then request in-service training through their local chiefs of police.

THE AUXILIARY POLICE GROUP has a partial organization with Paul Reynolds (seated, center) as captain and Richard Moll (at Reynolds' left) as asst. captain. Other officers will be chosen later. Additional

ment of Public Instruction. The men are prepared to serve in "disaster, distress, or emergency" and after receiving certificates will be a second-line defense for Warren borough.

The regional wrestling champions will enter the state championship meet the following Saturday, March 21, at Penn State.

ROCKETS BLAST WARREN

The Titusville Rockets took a giant step toward successfully defending their Section II, District 10 basketball crown and at the same time crushed Warren hopes of capturing their first Section II, District 10 basketball championship in more than 10 seasons when they easily whipped the Dragons, 68 to 51, on Beatty gym last Friday night.

But the Dragons will still have much to say about who the eventual winner of the tight loop race will be. In the remaining two games on their schedule the Blue and White will travel to Meadville and then return home to clash with Franklin in their season finale. Both these teams are tied with Titusville for the league lead with records of 6 wins and 2 losses.

In last Friday's game the Rockets hit on 9 of 12 shots in the first quarter and zoomed to a 20 to 8 lead at the end of that period. After that the Titusville cagers never were in serious trouble.

Three Rocket cagers contributed 55 points to the winning cause. George Dewey increased his league scoring lead by posting 27 points followed by Ron Warner, 16 and Dick Platt, 12.

Nicky Creola hit 14 and Dick Wilson rimmed 13 for the Blue and White.

WHS WRESTLERS DUMP CORRY

Blue and White matmen pinned three opponents, won 7 decisions and battled to one draw as they whipped the Corry Beavers, 32 to 8, for their eighth consecutive dual match victory of the season at Corry last Thursday night.

Only a tough Titusville team, whom the Dragons will wrestle at Titusville tonight, stand between Coach Hal Miller's Warren High School wrestlers and an undefeated season. The Dragons downed Titusville, 28 to 14, earlier in the season.

Only one other Dragon wrestling team has achieved an unbeaten season in the 11 years wrestling has been included in the interscholastic sports program at Warren High School. The 1953-1954 team won all 10 of its dual matches under the coaching of Homer Barr, now wrestling coach at State College High School.

Ricky Cummings, 103 lb. and Gail Page, 120 lb. pinned their opponents in the second period and John Mead, 165 lb., earned a third period fall in the Corry match last Thursday night.

PISTOL LEAGUE SHOTS

Seven new members signed up last Monday night to bring the membership in the Warren Revolver League to over 50, the largest attendance the league has had in recent years. The Revolver League meets in the Court House range every Monday night at 7 p.m.

The Warren Club will travel to Dubois on Saturday, February 28 to participate in a five club shoot. Tentative plans also call for a shoot at Bradford in the near future.

Top shooters in action last Monday night were, Class A, Mong, 262, Worley, 256 and Schmatz, 251; Class B, Billowski, 253, Mack, 252, Frederick, 244 and Overturf, 244; Class C, Kittner, 199, Stearns, 199, Kessler, 192 and Ferris, 187.

—WINTER DRIVING KNOW-HOW CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE—

Warren Bell Telephone Driver Gives Safe Winter Driving Tips

(Editor's Note: This feature is focused on Guy Painter, Warren-Jamestown Rd., Warren, who is a toll repairman for The Bell Telephone Co. From his experiences are related some life-saving rules of safe winter driving which will help you protect yourself and your loved ones.

The feature was written and edited by Bell Telephone News, monthly publication of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, and will appear in the firm's March publication.)

During last year's taste of real, old-fashioned winter weather, our Company drivers went to the aid of countless motorists in distress because of winter driving difficulties. We talked over the rescue experiences which many of our Good Samaritans had -- on highways, city streets and country lanes -- and one fact emerged clearly: if the distressed motorists had been familiar with the basic rules of winter driving, which consistently keep our drivers out of trouble, they wouldn't have had difficulties in the first place.

"What ARE our secrets of safe winter driving?" we asked Guy Painter, a charter member of our 100,000-Mile Club. Guy, Toll Repairman, Warren, has a record of driving for more than 30 years without a single accident. This record qualifies him as an expert in the field and lends authority to his views.

"One of winter's main hazards is reduced visibility," Guy said, and explained that a driver has to see danger before he can avoid it. "Since it may approach from the sides or rear, as well as the front, windshields and windows should be clear at all times, inside as well as outside. This requires wiper blades that don't streak and a good heater and defroster. An outside left-door mirror is invaluable when the rear window fogs over."

A second winter hazard is inadequate tire traction in snow and ice. Your best traction results from smooth, gradual pressure on the accelerator. The minute your wheels begin to spin, traction decreases 50 percent and your vehicle tends to skid sideways. Whether you use regular tires or snow tires, the tread should be in good condition, not worn smooth; but even with brand new tires, skid chains are often necessary, and slower than normal speeds are a must.

Sudden temperature changes are a third main winter hazard, and they can occur in a matter of a few minutes as you drive along. Think of an ice cube, sticky as it pops out of the tray but slippery a moment later when it begins to melt. Icy streets and highways can behave that way, too, and a skillful driver will test constantly to see how slippery the road is, and get its "feel." Be alert for shaded spots on the highway where wetness quickly turns to ice.

Guy never follows another car too closely or jams on his brakes. He knows that applying the brakes too hard or too abruptly can lock his wheels, that locked wheels behave like sled runners: they slide. Guy knows that the way to apply brakes on ice or snow is with an up-and-down pumping action that will stop him while letting him retain full control of his vehicle.

Here are some other pointers Guy has to give us: If you go into a skid, release the brakes at once and steer your front wheels in the direction you are sliding. "Guide the way you slide," advises Guy.

If you should get stuck on ice or snow, use the high-gear range and feed gas slowly until you get clear. With practice, you can learn to "rock" your car, when stuck, by rapidly shifting gears from forward to reverse and back again.

"Speeding in icy ruts leads quickly to trouble, as does driving blind in a heavy snowstorm," advised Guy. If you can't see adequately, it is your responsibility to get off the road until conditions improve. If you stall on the road, switch on your lights and left turn signal. A flashing light attracts attention.

Of course, safe driving is more a matter of mature attitudes and willingness to assume responsibility than it is of rules. You must winterize yourself and your driving as well as your car.

In summary:

1. Keep windows and windshield clear.
2. Use skid chains when needed.
3. Get the "feel" of the road regularly.
4. Don't follow other cars too closely.
5. Pump brakes to slow down; don't jam them on.
6. Guide the way you slide.
7. Feed gas gradually; don't spin your wheels.

An enthusiastic hunter and fisherman, Guy is constantly on the alert for deer dashing into the road when he drives in the mountains. He has had several close calls but never struck a deer.

Guy is a member of the Elks Club. He has been active in Boy Scout work, and has received a life membership in the Moose for extraordinary service. He is also a member of the Mountain Laurel Council of Telephone Pioneers and serves as Chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

His wife, Clara, is a Central Office Assistant in Warren Traffic and serves as his secretary in helping him with his committee work. Guy belongs to the Presbyterian church and has a son in Sharon and four grandchildren.

Guy started working with our Company as a Splicer's Helper on our old ringtop poles, some 36 years ago. His driving experience began with a horse and buckboard, and we asked him if horses and wagons were safer than modern trucks.

"Today's cars and trucks are far safer," he told us, "especially our Company vehicles. I've never been turned down on a request for safety equipment or service."

DANGEROUS DESCENT. The hazards of descending icy and snowy hills can be overcome by using skid chains and shifting to the lower gear range and applying brakes with a careful pumping action.

GUY PAINTER HEADS THE LIST. He has been affectionately nicknamed "Old Man Safety" by local State Police.

"DON'T LET ANYONE TELL You That Chains Are No Good," Guy warns. On glare ice, V-bar chains can cut braking distance in half and give seven times the pulling power of conventional tires.

YOUR NEIGHBORS ENLARGING YOUR WORLD THROUGH SERVICE AND SCIENCE

This phrase sums up, we think, exactly who we are and what we stand for . . .

Your neighbors

Telephone men and women live and work in the hundreds of Pennsylvania communities we serve. They shop where you shop, worship where you worship. They take an active part, often as leaders, in the same civic drives which claim your own participation and support. They are good neighbors, public-spirited neighbors, friendly neighbors.

Enlarging your world through service

In giving wings to your words, telephone people provide a service practically indispensable to you in managing household and business affairs. They help you keep friendships alive, make new friends. They can almost instantly speed your voice—and personality—across the nation, to ships at sea, around the world. Your telephone opens for you a world undreamed of a few generations ago.

Day and night throughout the year, telephone men and women serve you. And in emergencies such as floods, hurricanes and crippling snowstorms, they work around the clock so that you can keep in touch with others, and others can keep in touch with you.

Enlarging your world through science

Our associates in research at Bell Laboratories are constantly exploring new scientific frontiers in the transmission of sound. They have pioneered in radio, television and other fields of communication in addition to telephony. Over the years, their discoveries and inventions have been applied by the engineers of Bell operating companies such as ourselves to keep improving your telephone service. The transistor, for example, is helping make possible direct dialing to distant points. It also is playing an essential role in America's exploration of space. Bell Laboratories, Western Electric Company (manufacturing arm of the Bell System) and Bell operating companies all contribute importantly to national defense. Further inventions and discoveries by telephone scientists are stories for the future to write. You can be sure today, though, that they will make your life brighter and better . . . and enlarge your world even further.

These, then, are the men and women who are

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Anna Bulicz wishes to express their sincere thanks for the cards, flowers, use of cars, sympathy and many acts of kindness shown them during their recent bereavement.

SECOND ANNUAL Sportsmen's Show of Farrah Grotto will be held April 24 and 25 in Beaty cafeteria. Committee members now working on plans for the big event are (l. to r.) Wendell Lawson, Donald DuMond, Emmet Ecklund, Charles Lane, Robert Chittester, Ben White, Glenn Mickelson, Russell Templeton and Frank Reese. Not in photo are Robert Schatzle, James McMillan, Robert Kerr, and Mel Schleien.

THE FAMED PIANO-DUO Nelson and Neal will be heard in Beaty auditorium at 8:45 o'clock Friday evening, February 27, as the third concert in the current Jaycees' series.

Known as Mr. and Mrs. Neal off the stage, Nelson and Neal travel with their three children in a specially constructed mobile unit which also carries their two matched concert grand pianos. For several years, Nelson and Neal have been breaking records all over the world in the tremendous schedule of concerts which they maintain, usually over a hundred a year.

Over six million Americans read their life story in a recent issue of the Ladies Home Journal. Its title, WAVE AS YOU PASS, was taken from the sign on the rear of the mobile unit.

Allison Nelson is a native of Australia, while Harry Neal is from Tennessee. The young couple met and married in Philadelphia where both were studying at the famed Curtis Institute of Music. They now spend their summers in a large southern Colonial home in Paris, Tennessee, and the rest of the year on concert tours.

Many Warrenites may remember seeing this young piano duo on Ralph Edward's THIS IS YOUR LIFE several weeks ago.

ACTIVE MEMBERS of Warren Players Club who met for their regular monthly meeting last week were (l. to r.) Virginia Myers, Mildred Ochs, president Alice Yurick, Sunny Lucia, Joan Sereda, Richard Andersen, Helen Israel, Meridith Johnson. Not present for the picture were Edna Swanson, Don Norris, John Zavinski, Norman Forsgren and Paul Mutzabaugh.

"There, Mr. Axel J. Shillinghoff, try worrying about those nasty old taxes tonight!"

"Nothing to it. I just went down to The Warren National Bank and told them I wanted to finance a new car and . . . YIPES!!!!"
